

Neta Lipman, PhD, has extensive experience in environmental policy and decision-making. She is currently the Co-Founder and Acting Manager of the New School of Environment and Sustainability at Tel Aviv University. Previously, she served as Senior Deputy Director General of Natural Resources and Climate Resilience at the Ministry of Environmental Protection, managing a large staff and overseeing policy development, legislation, and enforcement. She also has significant experience in the non-profit sector, having served as the Executive Director of the Israel Society of Ecology and Environmental Sciences, where she directed various programs and publications focused on environmental science, policy, and communication. Dr. Lipman holds a PhD in Political Science from Tel Aviv University.