Kurzweil 3000 Learning Software is Available to All American University Students

To support the American University community through the concept of Universal Design for Learning, American University is now offering Kurzweil 3000 to all students, staff, and faculty. Kurzweil 3000 is a multi-sensory learning tool with a suite of powerful reading, writing, and study features that makes curricula accessible for all students.

- Kurzweil 3000 users can upload a variety of electronic file types (including Word, PDF, HTML, and EPUB), to hear text read aloud, annotate within the document, and export notes and highlights to create study guides.
- AU's version of Kurzweil can be accessed through a web browser or downloaded and installed on a Mac or PC.
- Kurzweil 3000 users also gain access to the Google Chrome or Firefox extension: Read the Web.
- Further information on Kurzweil 3000 can be found online on the Kurzweil 3000 website.

- You can register for your Kurzweil license and download the software using this link.
